One Of A Kind

One of a kind. That's the Indiana School for the Deaf. We're unique and original—the only deaf school in the state. Our world is filled with silence, but it's a fast-paced world of nimble fingers and expressive faces. Historic dormitories house students from Michigan City to Madison, from Fowler to Fort Wayne. From tender ages to late teens, we grow up together, learn together, laugh together, and share together.

This is the story of the one-of-a-kind life at the Indiana School for the Deaf.

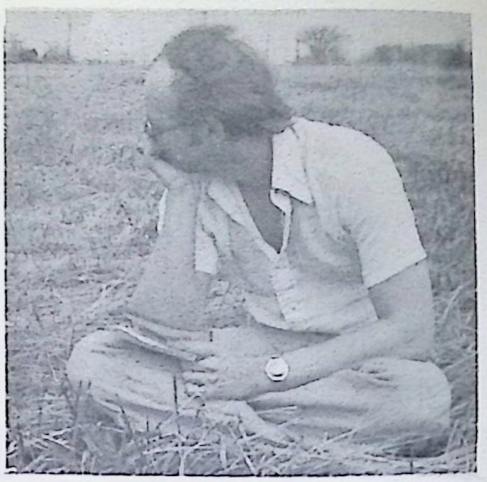
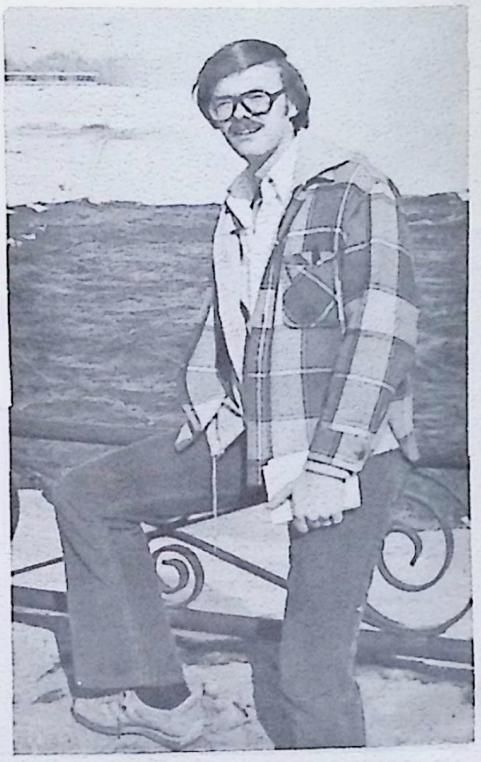
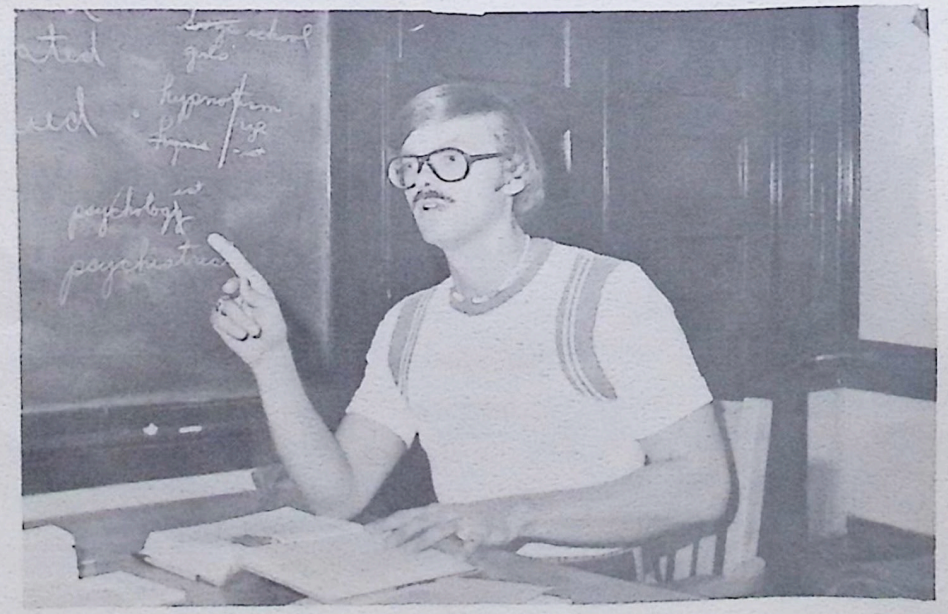
Dedication

Charles Daube (charlz dob e'). n.
1. A one-of-a-kind man who brought the ISD Class of '78 to its success. 2. The man whose long, hard hours of work resulted in a successful Junior Variety Show in 1976. 3. The man who used his time to make trip arrangements, who led us through unknown places, and whose hard work made the Senior Trip a success.



Rarely have we seen a man as dedicated to his class as this man. His dedication extended beyond merely what was expected; he gave of himself in precious time, patient understanding, and wise guidance. In order to show our true appreciation and to honor him for his outstanding work with us, the Class of '78 proudly dedicates the 1978 Indiana School for the Deaf Senior Number to a unique, one-of-a-kind man, Charles Daube.





ACTIVIT

Ida Sipich named Homecoming Queen

Homecoming— GR-R-R-REAT !

What makes a great homecoming? It takes people (lots of them), a good game (ISD vs Missouri Deaf), excitement (a double overtime), a victory (ISD 29-Missouri 28), and a lovely queen (Ida Sipich).

With the gridmen providing the thrills in a come-from-behind victory, the queen candidate provided the beauty for the evening. Senior queen candidates and their escorts were Melinda Crum nd Phil Yocum, Debbie Edwards nd Scott Miller, Linda Heimbach nd Luis Lebron, Annie Lindsay and Alex Hoover, Ida Sipich and Ray Kieffner, and Shaun Strange and Mark O'Connor. While the gridders planned their strategy for the second half, the candidates took their places. Superintendent Lamb announced the runners-up, Melinda Crum and Shaun Strange, and then the 1977 Football Homecoming Queen Ida Sipich.

The festivities lasted into the night at the party after the game. It capped a homecoming that was definetely great!

Proud Homecoming Queen Ida Sipich is escorted off by Ray Kieffner.

The queen's court consisted of Melinda Crum, Debbie Edwards, Linda Heimbach, and (not shown) Annie Lindsay and Shaun Strange

The Orioles change onto the field as the crowd cheers them on.

Last year's Mr. and Miss Oriole, Pat Arnold and Julie Belviy, flank classmates Bruce Voltz and Dina Maretich, the 1977-78 Mr. and Miss Oriole. Primary Unit pupils Tim Lengyes and Lisa Felter carried the flowers and crown.

Juniors Capture Honors

Although the Varsity cagers lost the game against Kentucky Deaf, the Mr. and Miss Oriole ceremonies brightened everyone's spirits.

Hearts started to pound and palms moistened as candidates Lynn Ives and Mark O'Connor, freshmen; Karen Moore and Mike Burgess, sophomores; Dina Maretich and Bruce Voltz, juniors; and Sherrie Grabbe and Errol Bennett, seniors, took their places. Proud parents and loyal friends nervously awaited the announcement—Dina Maretich and Bruce Voltz, Mr. and Miss Oriole of 1978! Their win marked the third consectutive year the Class of '79 had won the Mr. and Miss Oriole contest.

The celebration continued after the game at a party in the 1200 Club where ISD and Kentucky students got together to share their news. What more could you ask for a successful evening?

The newly-crowned Mr. and Miss Oriole not only share the honors, but the cake, too.

Ida Sipich smiles.

ISD superfan Cheryl Gahimer looks nervous before the start of the Varsity game.

Friday Night Fever

When spring comes, the students' thoughts turn to the prom, the highlight of the year. Getting a date, selecting a dress or tux, picking a couple for the double date, and planning the after-prom activities kept the students busy up until the magic night, the night for Friday Night Fever!

Decorated in a springlike decor with bright flowers, verdent grass runners, and gay crepe paper, the Knights of Columbus hall was changed into a garden for the lovely girls and their handsome dates. The mood was set by the music from the Northwinds Band. Dancing was not the only activity as the prom-goers rushed to get their pictures taken under the trellis and then headed for the buffet line.

As the evening grew late, all eyes turned to Principal Jess Smith for the announcement of the 1978 Prom Queen and King. Loud applause and shouts of joy went up as Ida Sipich and Greg Gantt went up to accept their honors.

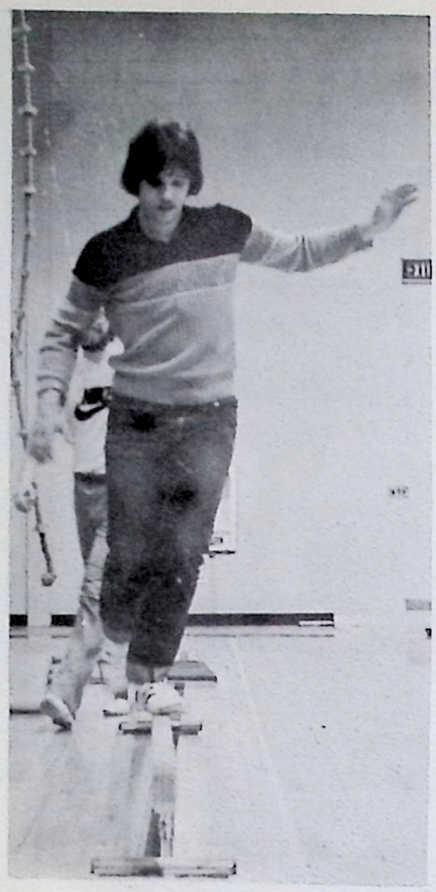
It was a one-of-a-kind evening of beauty and laughter and friendship.

The prom-goers dance to the beat of the Northwinds Band.

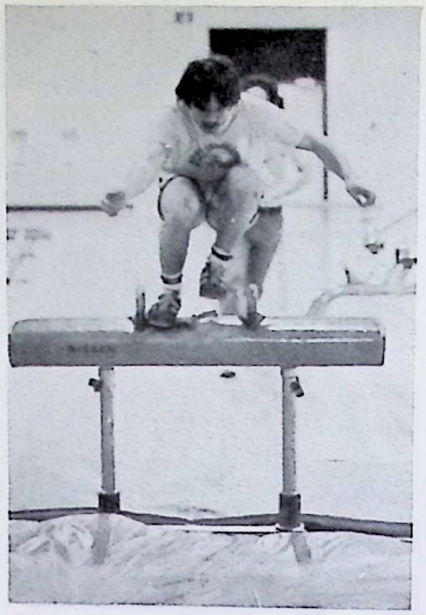
Prom royalty Ida Sipich and Greg Gantt lead off a slow dance.

Students decked out in their finery enjoy chatting as they await the next number.

The staff members and parents seem to be enjoying the "Friday Night Fever."

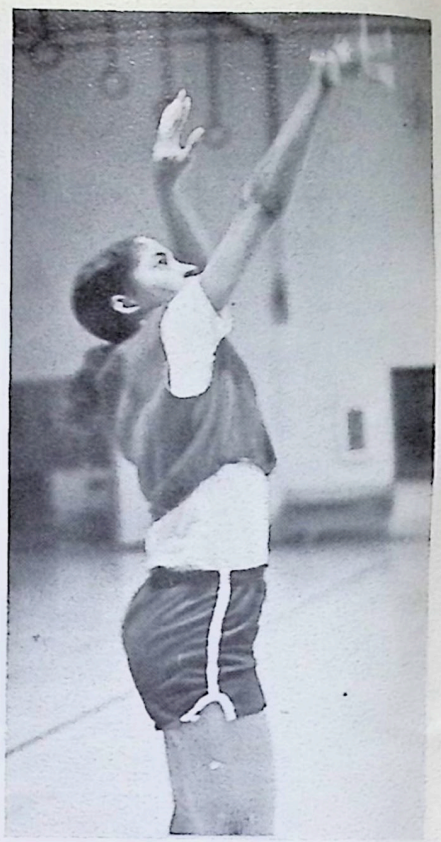


Balancing himself is harder than Junior Bruce Voltz thinks.



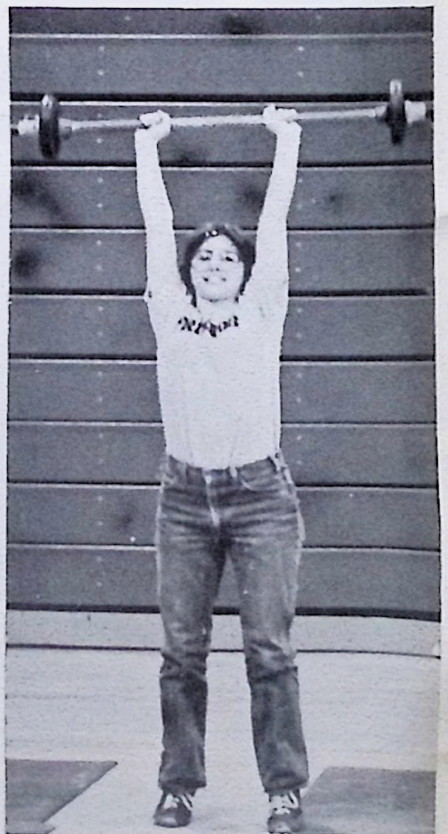
Senior Greg Gantt goes all out on the obstacle course in the superstars competition.

CLASS ACTIVITIES

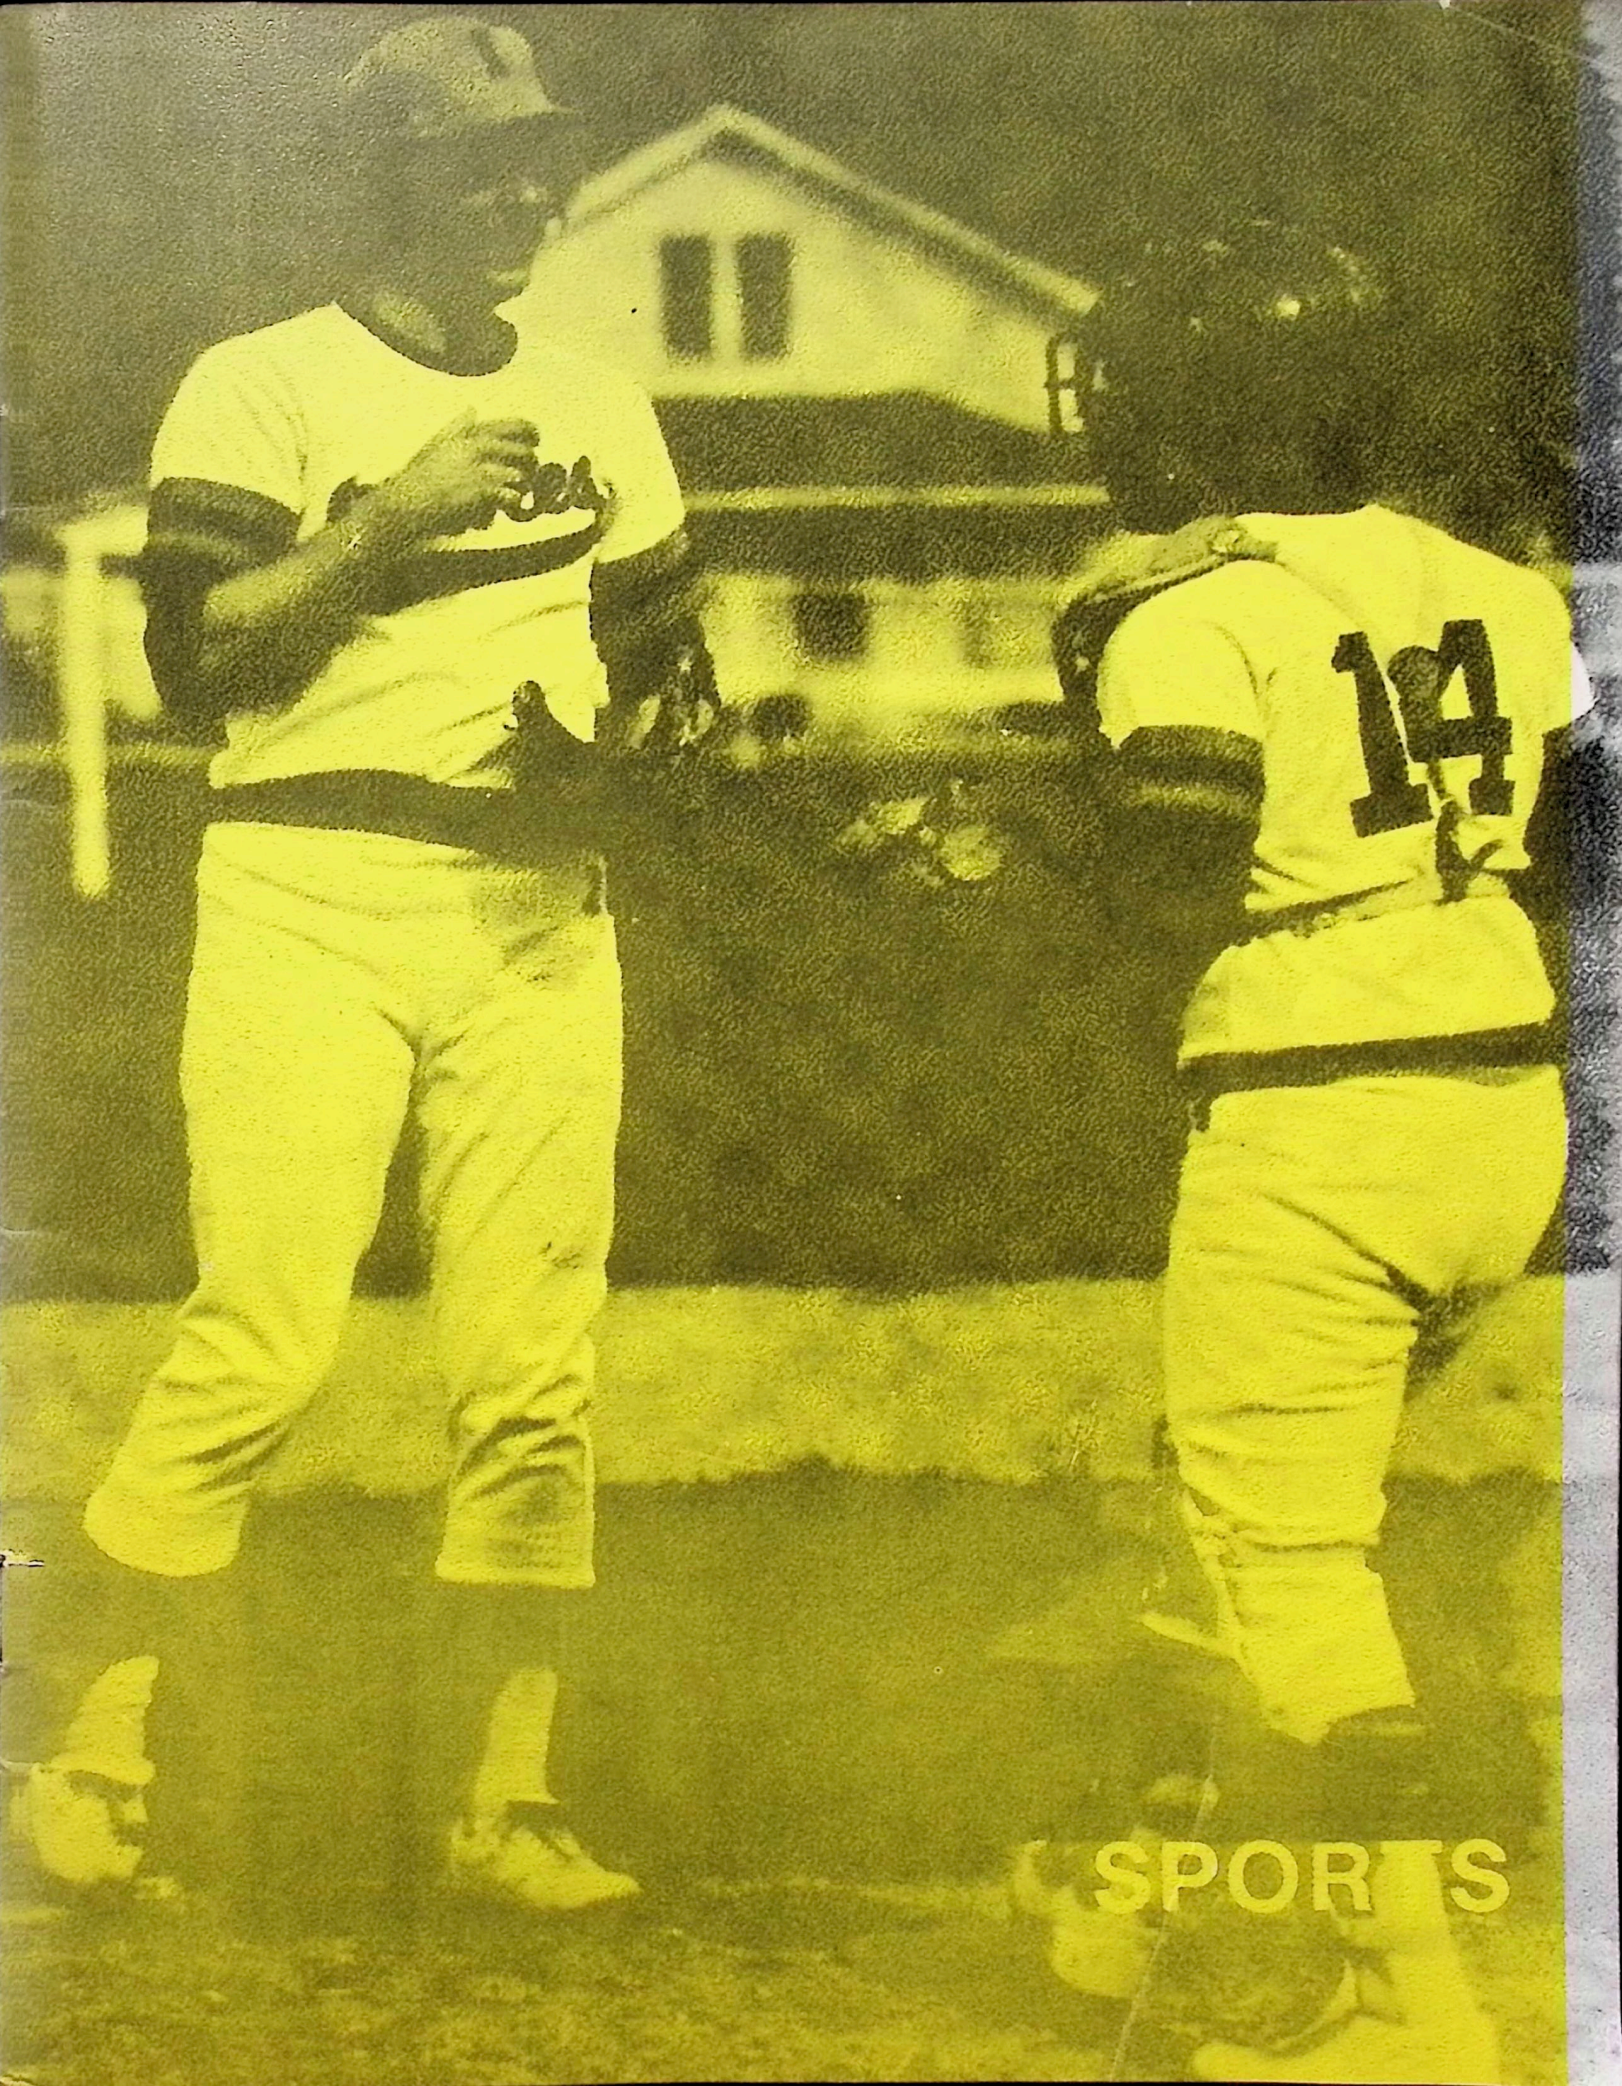


Celestine Sanders tries to push her team ahead by two more. The Juniors captured the basketball tournament championship.

Senior Ida Sipich doesn't look too sure of herself as Sophomores Karen Moore and Debbie Braun close in on her during the action of the Basketball Tournament sponsored by the Junior Class. Fellow Senior Debbie Edwards leads the way with an illegal moving screen.



Wonder Woman Terri Levine shows her super strength as she lifts the barbells.

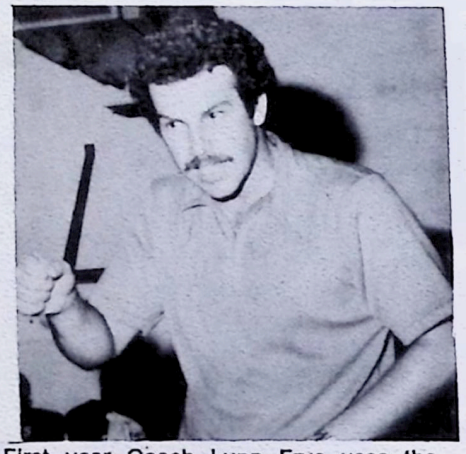


SPORTS

Football

The Orioles gridmen under first year head coach Lynn Frye expected to do better this year than last year, but again they fell victims to mental laspes as they struggled through a 2-7 campaign. Everything looked bright when the Orioles smashed St. Rita Deaf 33 to 0 the game having been dedicated to assistant coach, Patrick Oatis in memory of his late mother. Then suddenly everything looked bleak as the Orioles lost badly to Whites, N. Vermillion and Milan. In the annual homecoming the gridmen played one of their best games of the year as they defeated highly-favored Missouri Deaf in two overtimes, 29-28. This game marked the 6th straight homecoming victory and the last winning game as the team lost 3 more to finish the season. There was one bright side of the season. Don Castleberry defensive lineman was named to the Deaf All-American Team.

Assistant Coach Pat Oatis explains a key play during a timeout.



First year Coach Lynn Frye uses the halftime to explain problems of the first half and ideas on how to adjust for the second half.

Orioles Struggle Through Tough Season

Even referee Curt Baker knows that I.S.D. Is Number One and one-of-a-kind.

ROUNDBALL ROUNDUP

Roundball Roundup

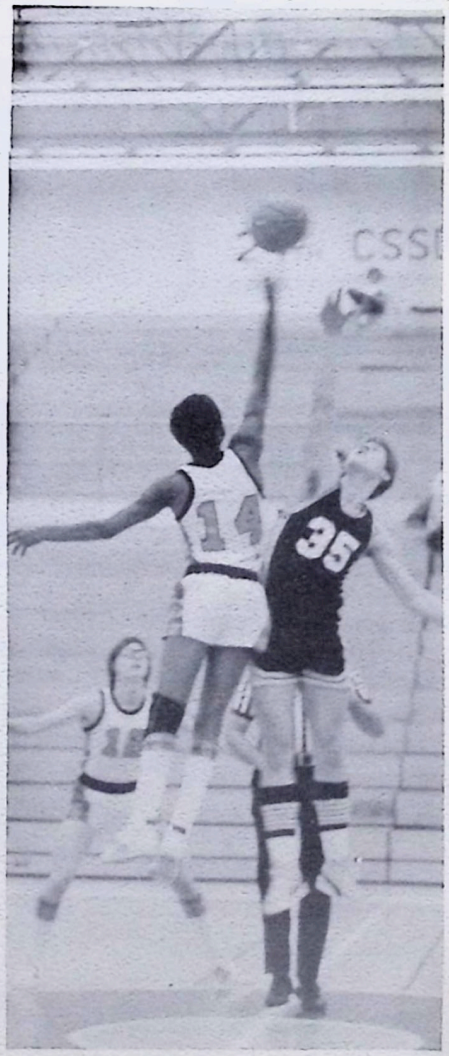
Despite four returning starters, winning season once again eluded the Oriole cagers as they wound up a disappointing 4-17 season highlighted by several hard-fought games, including a one-point loss to Latin after having been down by fifteen and a four-point loss against Morton after having trailed by 20.

The slow-starting Orioles didn't notch a victory until the Central States Tournament where the ISD cagemen finally won by beating the Missouri School for the Deaf, 69-60. After the lone victory at the tourney, they continued their skid, interrupted briefly by victories over St. Rita, Indianapolis Christian Academy, and Lutheran. The season ended with a "never-say-die" ISD team losing to the taller Howe Hornets in the sectional.

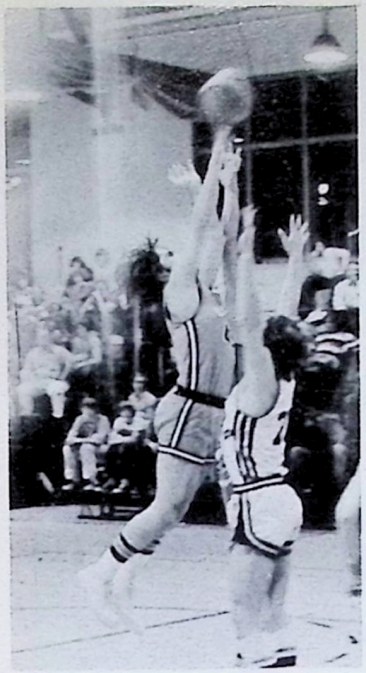
Individual honors went to juniors Alex Hoover and Pat Arnold, who won positions on the CSSD All-Star team. Alex also earned a spot on the Indianapolis Metro Independent Conference All-Stars.

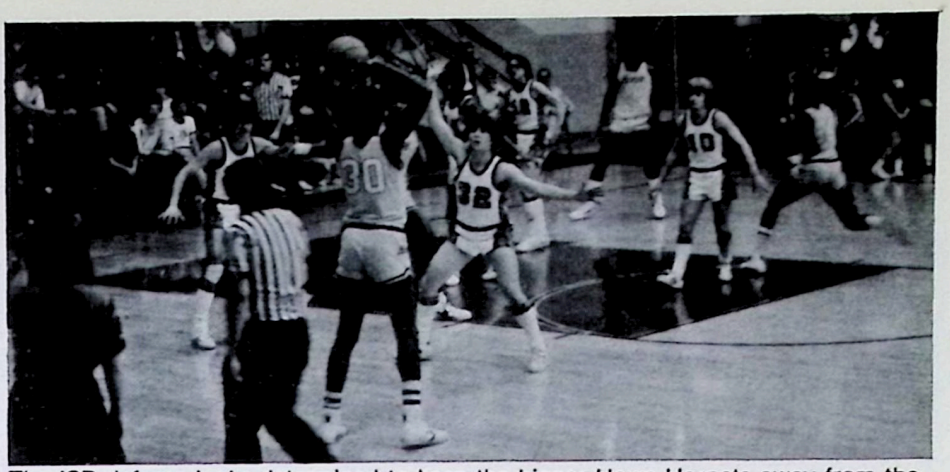
Bobby Byers and Carl Pramuk get tough on defense against Charlton.

Pat Arnold shows great concentration as he lets one go to help ISD to victory against Missouri.



Alex Hoover displays his famous jumping skill which earned him All-Star honors at the CSSD Tournament and in the Metro League of Indianapolis.





The ISD defense looks determined to keep the bigger Howe Hornets away from the basket during Sectional play.

Coach Kovatch takes time out to give words of wisdom to Junior Varsity MVP Mark O'Connor.

The Junior Varsity under Coach Robert Kovatch surprised almost everyone by turning a possible 0-17 season into a 6-11 record. At the start of the season Coach Kovatch admitted that his team was inexperienced, having two ex-wrestlers and a first year player in the starting five, but after seventeen tough games, he was proud to say that this year's team was the best team he'd ever coached.

Boys' Varsity Baseball

Having only ten boys out for baseball proved to be a factor in the losing baseball season.

As the team struggled through the spring, mental errors cropped up repeatedly. In addition to untimely mental lapses, the lack of pitchers cost ISD dearly as the opponents took advantage of our weaknesses

Playing in the sectionals for the forst time in three years, ISD lost in the first roun to Chatard, 21-1, to round out the season.

Baseball Team First Row Ray Kieffner, Steven Dille, Greg Gantt, Robert Acquafredda, Brian Dille, and Coach David Bailey. Second Row Dean Timberlake, Mark Hunt, Louis Carpenter, Bruce Voltz, Tim Stafford, and Keith Harreld. Third Row Richard LeMere, Doug Wells, Pat Arnold, Mike Fonseca, Carl Pramuk, and Randy Holmes.

Boys' Track

Though the team improved from last year, the track season didn't turn out quite as the tracksters had hoped it would. A lack of track and field boys hurt as did a lack of experience for the team as a whole. The one bright spot during the season was ISD's victory in the triangular meet, the victory being the first in three years. The team was led by MVP Donald Castleberry, called an "all-round trackster" by Coach Walters.

Girls' Track

Under Coach Jackie McBroom, the female tracksters tallied up an impressive season. Individual efforts helped bring about many victories. Several of the losses were only by a narrow margin. With many returning starters, the 1979 season could be even better.

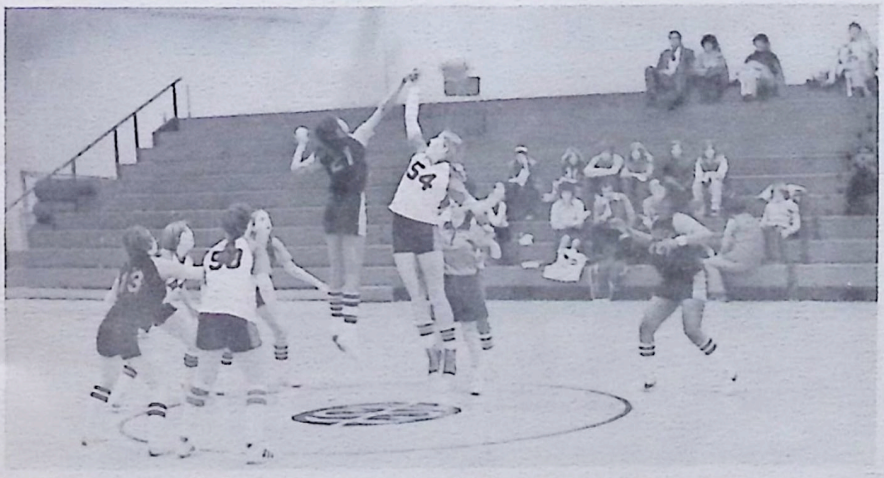
MVP Celestine Sanders goes for two against North Central.

The ISD coaches and players look tense during tournament action.

Coach Linda Lloyd decides it's time to have a few words with her team.



Center Celestine Sanders outjumps North Central center as Rose Hayes moves to get the tip.

Girls' Basketball

Coming off a 12-3 1976-77 season, the girls of first year coach Linda Lloyd hoped to maintain the winning form. Unfortunately the loss of key players through graduation and a lack of height hurt the team. Displaying a fighting spirit, the female Orioles didn't roll over and die, but kept on trying. Junior Celestine Sanders, the M.V.P.,led the team in scoring and rebounding while pacing the team throughout the year.

Swimmers and Volleyballers Struggle Through Tough Seasons

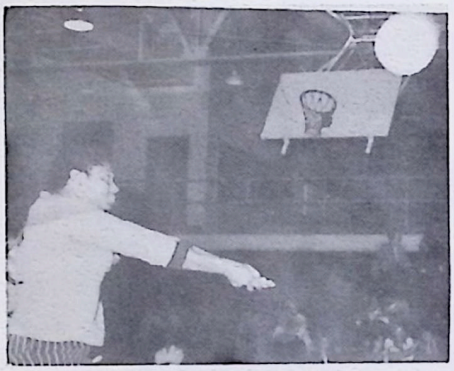
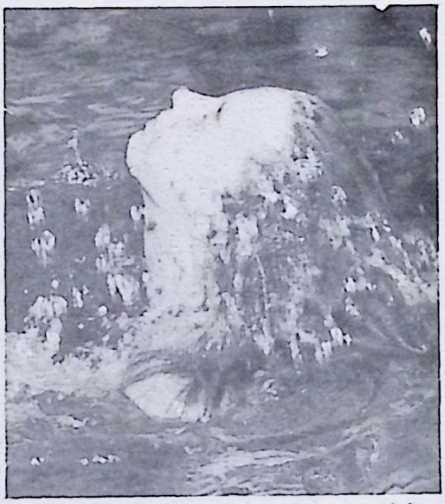
ISD's swim team finished a season in which they won only one meet out of eight, but though posting a losing record, there were some bright spots, including a victory over Howe High School for the first time in four years and the setting of five individual school records and three relay records.

The volleyballers came away with a 3-11 record for the season. Inexperience and costly errors prevented the squad from improving on that record.



Rose Hayes has her eye on the ball as she returns the serve.



That's no mermaid; it's Carrie Cobb rising during swim practice.

Junior Debbie Spence serves well against the opponents.

We got the spirit. Yes, we do. We got the spirit. How about you?

Who backs up the teams more than the fans? It's our hard working cheerleaders, of course. The girls put in countless hours cheering on the teams, making banners and posters, and developing skits for the floor-shaking, roof-raising pep rallies. The girls work daily to perfect routines to catch the imagination of the fans and to represent ISD in a manner which brings honor to their teams and school.

Stunts like the human pyramid show off the hard work of the cheerleading squad (floor) Marcia Wilkerson, (bottom) Ida Sipich, Jodee Scharfenberger, Laurie Malone, (middle) Lynn Ives, Linda Kelly, and (top) Debbie Braun.

The Varisty cheerleaders work hard "firing up" the crowd.

Jr. Varsity cheerleaders Linda Kelly, Marcia Wilkerson, and Laurie Malone "show their stuff" to the ISD fans.

A very moving part of every basketball game was the "Star Spangled Banner" led by Jodee Scharfenberger and signed by all the cheerleaders.

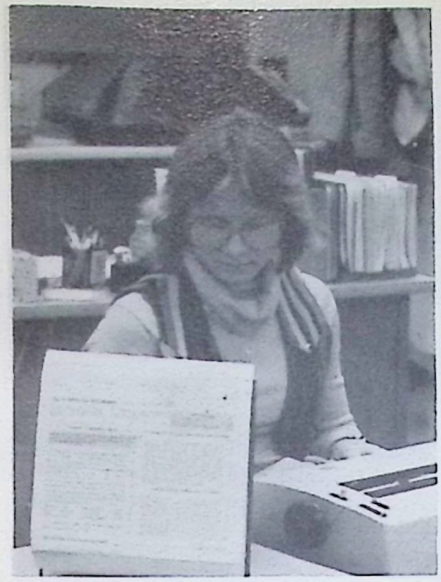
ISD Form No. 60 Nov. 70

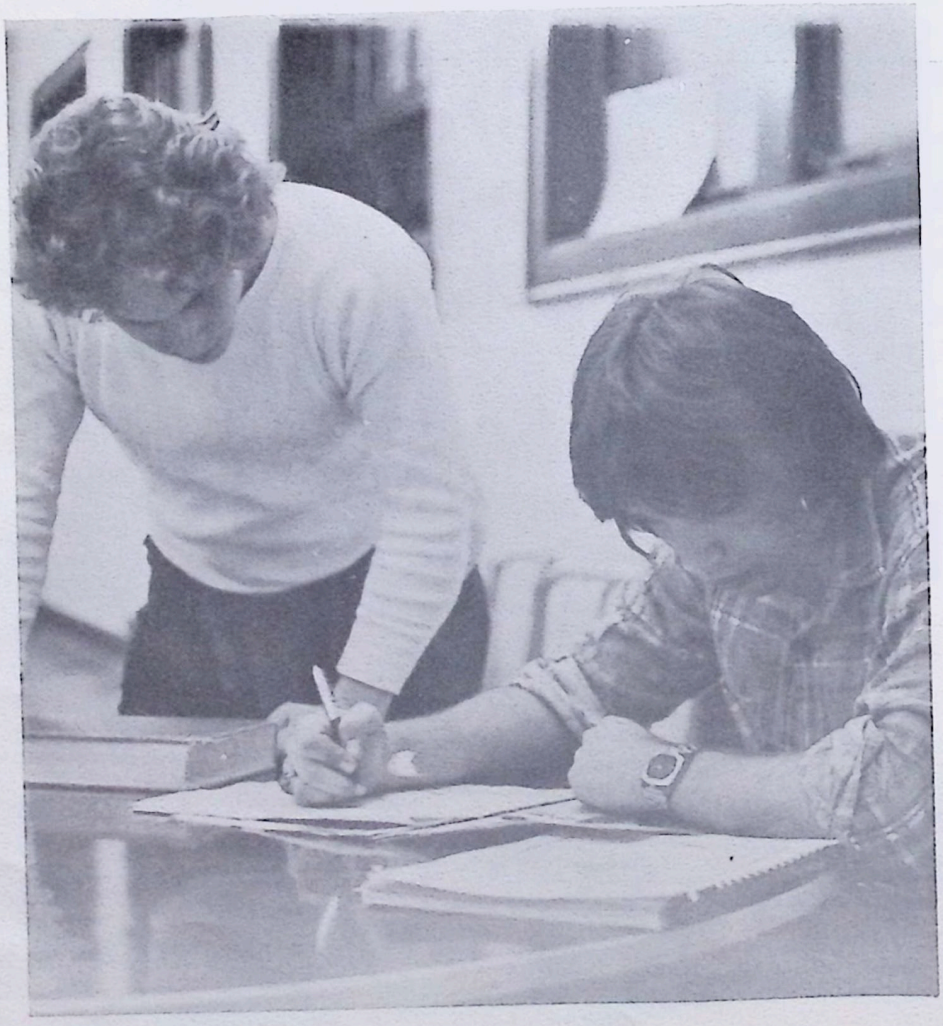


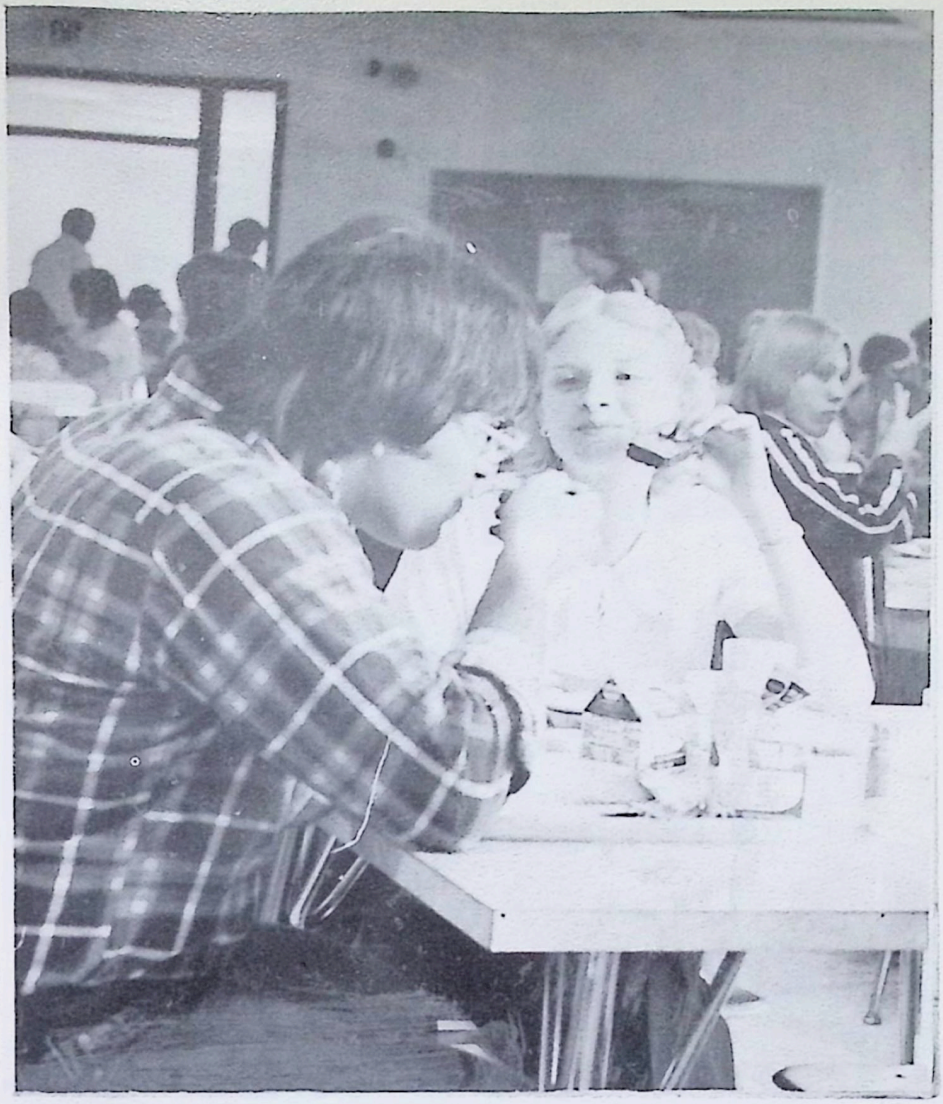
"Homework again?! I can't do all that; it's too much!" is a common student cry in the classrooms, where seven hours of their time is spent. Dull pencils, black erasers, messy papers, and lost books are all part of ISD school life. Through the lessons, the students learn basic skills to prepare them for the future ahead of them. They also learn the "red tape" of life on campus.

Life at ISD Means Dorm Living

The dorm. A big part of our lives here and part of why ISD is unique. The dorms are our home-away-from-home, a place to rest after a hard day at school, a place to get together with friends, a place for "our space."

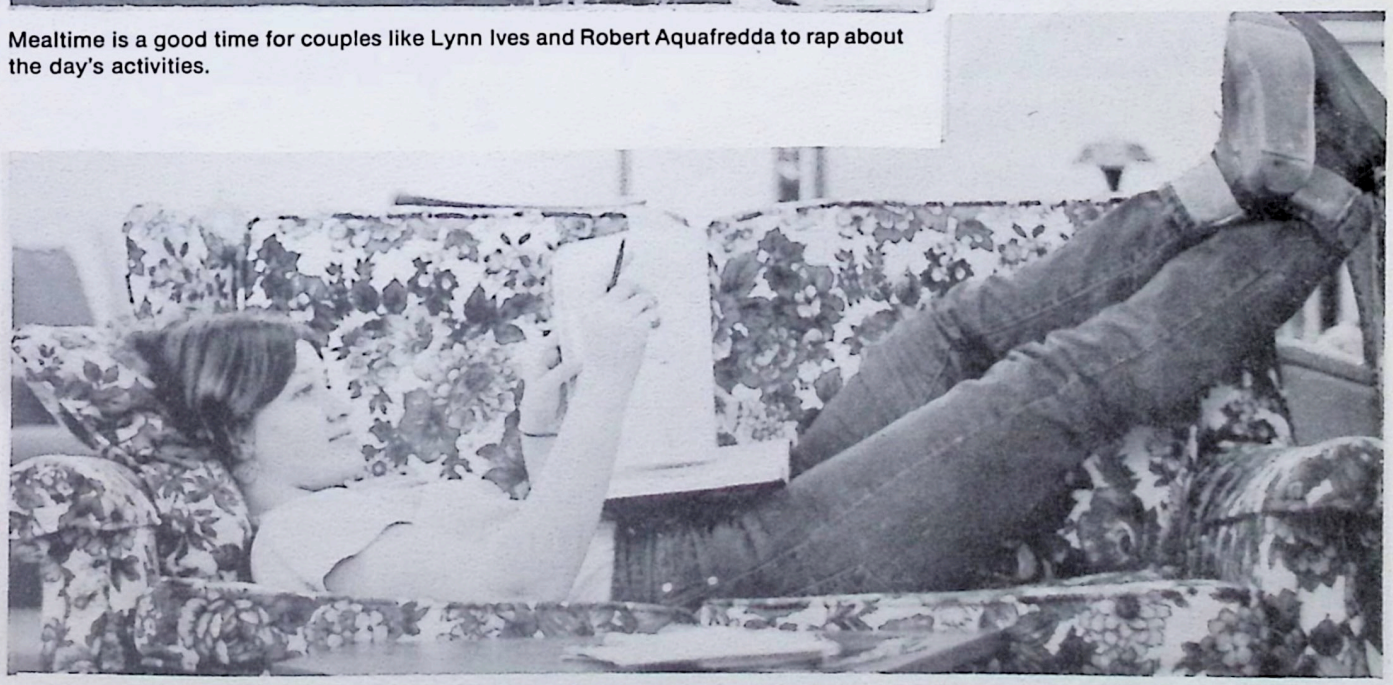
It's almost impossible to say there's nothing to do in the dorms. Whether it's housekeeping chores in the morning or games, TV, studying, or yakking in the afternoon, the dorm is a beehive of busy students. Parties, activities, and visitations keep the spirits high and make the dorm a little bit of "home."





Mealtime is a good time for couples like Lynn Ives and Robert Aquafredda to rap about the day's activities.

Dorm life includes leisure activities as developing pool wizard Kevin Reagan demonstrates.



If you look hard enough, you can even find studying going on in the dorm! Sophomore Laurie Malone gets comfortable for some late night work.

"You've got to be kidding!" seems to be mathematics teacher Melvin Squire's thought as he sees the answer from one of his students.

An example of the fact that a teacher's job doesn't always stop in the classroom is Bob Kovatch, interpreting for the United Nations tour guide during the senior trip.

Teachers Add Life

Teaching at ISD requires a special kind of person, a person who is willing to get involved, to be active whether it be in sports, organizations, or extra work to make a classroom really go.

Using sign language, the teachers pass on their knowledge and strengthen the backbone of our confidence. We appreciate it, but, of course, flying erasers, lazy students, and days of pulling out hair in frustration happen frequently, too. It's a hard job and our teachers meet the demands.

Keeping ISD in good shape

Running one of the largest deaf schools in the United States takes the efforts of a lot of hardworking people.

The busy group at the Health Center dispenses medicine, soothes fevers, and generally keeps ISD healthy.

Upkeep on the 77-acre campus is the work of the maintenance staff, whose round-the-clock work keeps ISD warm and in working order.

Testing done by the clinical staff helps us know ourselves better. Diagnostic work aids the parents, teachers, and students in working out the students' needs.

SPECIAL PEOPLE FOR SPECIAL JOBS

What's more important than eating? Not much, of course, so the dining hall is one of the most popular places on campus. Preparing over 600 appetizing meals for hungry students and staffers keeps the kitchen staff working at full speed.

While the kitchen staff keeps us full, the laundry staff keeps us clean and the security staff keeps us safe. They're all vital to the life of I.S.D.; the jobs they do make our lives a little easier.

The dorm. A big part of our lives here and part of why ISD is unique. The dorms are our home-away-from-home, a place to rest after a hard day at school, a place to get together with friends, a place for "our space."

It's almost impossible to say there's nothing to do in the dorms. Whether it's housekeeping chores in the morning or games, TV, studying, or yakking in the afternoon, the dorm is a beehive of busy students. Parties, activities, and visitations keep the spirits high and make the dorm a little bit of "home."

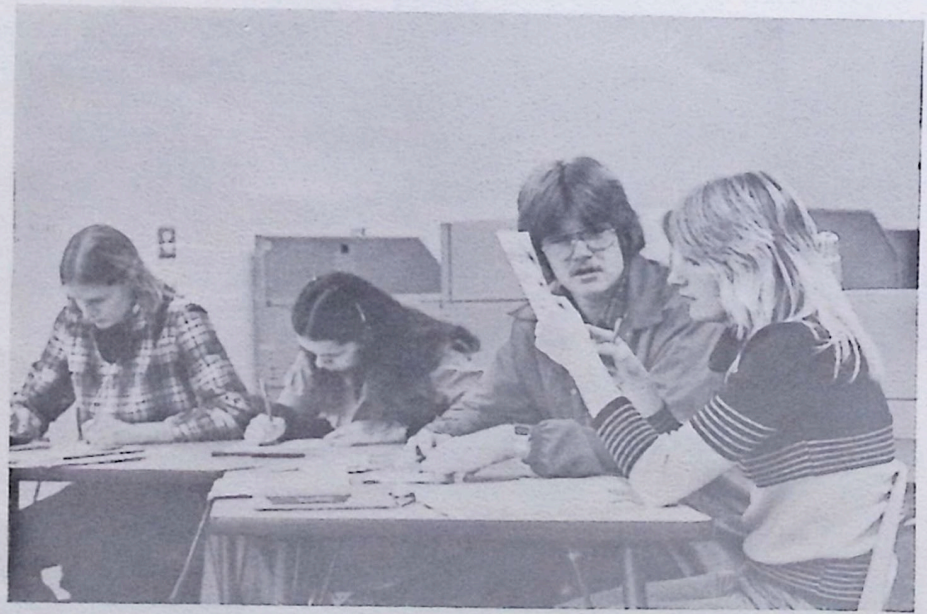
"I was four-and-a-half when I first came to I.S.D.," said senior Don Castleberry. "Life at I.S.D. was very different from my home and I was scared, but gradually I learned the signs and made new friends. My life became easier here and I now feel that I.S.D. is my second home. The time has passed quickly with studying, school activities, dorm activities, and clubs. At last I'm a senior and the door of the future will open for me soon."



Seniors Don Robinson and Patty Trozzy discuss a problem while Melinda Crum and Ida Sipich work on.

Ask most seniors what the most exciting event of their senior year was and you'll hear a rousing "Senior Trip!" It was fun, exciting, educational, and exhausting!

The eleven-day journey carried the twenty-one seniors and four chaperones through five states as well as Canada. The first stop was Detroit, where we toured the Ford Museum, a tribute to the vision of Henry Ford. Next stop was Toronto, Canada, the city that captured the hearts of all. Its beauty and flavor impressed us so much that two days seemed much too short. In those two days we saw Casa Loma, a 98-room castle, the Canadian National Tower, the Ontario Science Center, and scores of stores and restaurants. Sad at leaving but eager for the adventures that lay ahead, we took off for beautiful Niagara Falls, one of the seven natural wonders of the world. Having finished our sightseeing there, we next visited the Rochester School for the Deaf, where the students and staff made us feel at home. The schedule there included a tour of the Eastman Kodak plant, which is the size of a small town, and the spacious RIT-NTID campus.

New York City was next and what an experience! After having been lost in downtown New York City for a hour in a school bus, all of us were ready to by-pass New York, but despite that, the vitality of the city caught us and we enjoyed the World Trade Center, Broadway, Radio City Music Hall, Macy's, the Staten Island Ferry, Statue of Liberty, Greenwich Village, Times Square, and of course, the Subway!

The long journey back included stops at Gettysburg, where the famed Civil War battle was fought, and Wheeling, West Virginia, where we stayed in a cabin deep in the woods.

We arrived back at ISD exhausted but thrilled by all we'd seen and done. It was certainly a one-of-a kind trip for us!

"SENIORITIS"

Senioritis—that deadly disease. The symptoms usually start to appear in early fall of the senior year. These symptoms include daydreaming, "itchy-feet," boredom, the urge to do wild and crazy things, and the overwhelming desire to not do anymore homework - EVER! Is there a cure for senioritis? YES- GRADUATION!

ACTOR ONE AND ALL

"What, me act on stage?!?!" Oh, I'm too embarrassed!" With these common fears expressed but hopes running high, the Class of '78 headed into preparations for their Junior Variety Show. "The Flying Fingers Show."

Memorizing lines, selecting costumes, building props, and of course rehearsing nightly kept the class of '78 busy as opening night rapidly approached. Makeup, lights, entrances, exits—"Would it ever come out right?!!" wondered the frantic actors and actresses.

Finally came opening night. All the hard work paid off as the full house rocked with laughter over the Three Stooges, the "Miss" Deaf Contest, the pidgeon pantomime by Don Castleberry, and Errol Bennett's necking routine. The finale was Broadway in Indianapolis in the form of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," starring Greg Gantt as Charlie Brown.

Those were two nights of which memories are made; who can forget Pam Wallace's shocked expression when Greg surprised her with a whipped-cream pie in the face . . . Errol "fainting" when he won the beauty contest . . . "greaser" Carl Pramuk, the hoodlum M.C.?

The Class of '78 will leave ISD, but will be taking wonderful memories like these.

A Bond of Friendship

As the days of our senior year fly past, filled with activities, sports, and schoolwork, we take time to reflect on the strong friendships we've made through the years at I.S.D. Some of us have been together since the tender age of four, and close to fifteen years of growing up together makes a strong base for lifelong friendsips. We share so many memories of dorm life, of school life. And of the pleasure of growing up together that, even though we'll go our separate ways, we'll have much to talk over whenever we meet again. Our uniqueness as a class lies in these special ties we've made.

The Senior Year Means Fun, Excitement, and... WORK!

Farewell

Dorms... speech lessons... sign language... mischief... studies... grades... dates... work... togetherness... all of these made up the years we spent at I.S.D. It's time now to leave but not without a last thank you to all those who've helped us grow.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Class of 1979

The largest class in the history of ISD, the Class of '79, came on strong active, and involved! Junior boys and girls powered the sports program and came away with many of the individual honors. They also swept the Mr. and Miss Oriole contest for the third year in a row.

Other concerns for the busy juniors during the hectic year were the annual Junior-Senior Prom and the school newspaper, the Reflector, candy, food, and flower sales also kept the juniors on the move working toward their senior trip goal.

Jodee Scharfenberger, Beverly Hanyzewski, Mike Eisele, and Kevin Reagan were chosen to represent ISD at Girl's State and Boy's State, respectively, at Terre Haute this summer.

With all their services and contributions, the juniors had a super year!

There are people we have touched and those who have touched us. The year has come to a close, but the memories made, new friends found, joys shared, goals achieved, and knowledge gained have made the year a special one, a one-of-a-kind year. This yearbook tells the story of who we are. One of a kind. Unique. Original. That's I.S.D.
